

Caroline Rupprecht is a German actress, currently training at the London School of Dramatic Art. She began performing on stage at a young age, taking part in productions such as Lord of the Flies, Kick Me Kate (adaptation of Kiss Me Kate), and The Threepenny Opera, and later played Lampito in a student theatre production of Lysistrata. She also explored the joy of improvisation in a student theatre group in Stuttgart, Germany. Since 2024, she has been fully dedicated to her actor training in London. In her ensemble showcase Prospero's Isle – A Journey through the Classics, she performed a scene as Isabella (Measure for Measure, William Shakespeare) and worked on portraying the depth and emotional nuance of the character. Caroline is drawn to the richness of classical roles as well as the freedom offered by contemporary texts and improvisation. She is passionate about discovering new characters and bringing their inner worlds to life. Working fluently in German and English, she is committed to bringing her enthusiasm to stage and screen.
